

Dr John Chia
MBBS (Singapore), MRCP (UK)
FAMS (Medical Oncology)

Dr John Chia is a Senior Consultant Medical Oncologist at the Department of Medical Oncology, National Cancer Center Singapore, and Visiting Consultant, KK Womens and Childrens Hospital. He received his undergraduate Medical training at the National University of Singapore and obtained his membership at the Royal College of Physicians Edinburgh in 2002. Upon completion of his medical oncology board examinations in Singapore, he trained with Professor Malcom Brenner and Professor Stephen Gottschalk at the Centre for Cell and Gene Therapy, Baylor College of Medicine, Houston from 2009-2010 in the field of cancer vaccines and immunotherapy, and completed a second fellowship with Prof Stan Kaye at The Royal Marsden Hospital London in 2012. He has developed and led several investigator-initiated phase 1, 2 and 3, clinical trials, and has published in the fields of inflammation, immunotherapy, and chemotherapy for solid tumors. He is married with 2 active children and in his spare time, enjoys Chinese Ink Painting and Asian Pottery.